Customer Reviews

Love this little map. And so handy. It is easily pocketable and had all the info I needed to find my way around Vancouver without getting lost. This contains 5 maps: on the back is a map showing Vancouver and Victoria, including some of the major attractions of each and the ferry lines. Open it up and there's a GREAT map of Stanley Park on the left--it really had everything I needed to know to enjoy my 1/2 of biking and exploring this park. On the right is a map of the region, for big-picture perspective. Open the left side and you get a popup map (four times the size of the folded up map) of the greater Vancouver area. Open the right side and you get a popup map of downtown

Vancouver, including Granville Island (very worth a visit!), Chinatown (please be sure to see the Sun Yat-Sen park and gardens and take the tour, highly recommended!), Gastown, the Science Center, and others. This was the map I found most invaluable, as my hotel was in the center of downtown. Next time I go anywhere, I'll see whether the same company makes a popout map for my destination. If you're going to Vancouver, I highly recommend this popout map.

I love these maps. They are compact and have all the most important information for getting around cities and include all the areas I want to explore. When I am traveling to a large city I always check to see if they make one of these for where I am going. Downside is the inside is paper so if it is rainy the map can easily get damaged which is bumner because these are not cheap. I usually pick up a free tourist map for rainy days. Also I have also accidentally torn part of the popout map along the perforation on a few of my maps which makes it more difficult to fold back up (this is after significant use however). Overall these are much more durable than a standard paper map that I would end up folding over and over and would end up recycling at the end of my trip.

PopOut maps are my favorite maps to travel with, and I was so glad to find one for Vancouver! These are so handy to carry in your purse or jacket pocket. The paper and cover are durable and easy to read.

This map was great for my wife and I's trip to Vancouver over spring break. While it's very detailed it's small enough to fit in a pocket and it's durable enough to last a while versus maps from some other companies or the free ones you can get in hotels.

I love these maps and buy them for wherever I go. Thanks for making one for Vancouver!

Disappointing really, I needed the whole city including suburbs

It's a cleverly designed map. It was a gift to my son and his wife & they thanked me for it, but no info about whether it was good or bad.
