Preparing For Your Civil Deposition: A Guide For The Law Enforcement Professional (Law Enforcement Professional Enhancement Series) (Volume 1)

Synopsis

Whether you are a defendant officer in the midst of a civil lawsuit, or simply proactive, the information in this book is vital to your career survival. Comprehensive step-by-step advice helps you prepare for and testify in civil and criminal depositions. This information is based upon the advice of some of the best police civil defense attorneys in the business combined with the experiences and lessons-learned of an expert witness with over twenty years of defending officers in civil and criminal courts. Without exception, officers who prepare well for their depositions tend to do well facing even the best attorneys, and thus assist in the defense of their cases. Those who fail to ready themselves rarely do as well, and sometimes literally lose what was a winnable case for themselves and their agencies by giving terrible deposition testimony. Bottom line: the result and effectiveness of deposition testimony is largely up to you, the officer. Wandering through this civil-litigation wilderness without a guide can be detrimental to many aspects of your life. That's the reason for this book; so that good officers who reasonably do the job the way they are trained and who put themselves in harm's way for others can have a step-by-step process to prepare for their day in court. Mr. Williams is a highly sought after police procedures expert witness who has seen the best and the worst of deposition testimony over the past two decades. His down-to-earth, nuts and bolts approach makes for an easy read as well as a useful how-to guide through the complicated, and sometimes murky world of the U.S. judicial system.

George T. Williams has been acting as a compensated expert witness since 1991. He is accepted nationwide as an expert in federal, state, and municipal courts, as well as in employment arbitration hearings. He provides testimony in many diverse areas of police litigation, including police force, deadly force, procedures, tactics, pursuits, Police Service Dog, patrol, SWAT, and jail cases. Mr. Williams is a nationally and internationally known trainer and innovator of police force skills and programs including firearms, defensive tactics, impact weapons, aerosol restraint systems, arrest and control, and TASER (registered trademark). He routinely presents officer safety and survival classes nationwide, and has trained dozens of SWAT teams in his career. He is widely known for his civil liability prevention training, and ability to distill force law into applicable knowledge for the average officer. A prolific author, Mr. Williams offers original thinking in police tactics and force response through his writing. He has authored over 200 articles in such prestigious publications as the FBI's "Law Enforcement Bulletin," the National Tactical Officers Association's "The Tactical Edge," the International Chiefs of Police's "The Police Chief," "Law & Order," "The Police Marksman," the International Association of Law Enforcement Officers' "The Firearms Instructor," and many more. His first book, "Force Reporting for Every Cop" (Jones and Bartlett, Boston, 2006), is a valuable tool in developing an officer's reporting skills.

If you are a law enforcement officer you have to have this book in your library. The author is one of the most respected use of force experts in the United States. This subject is one that most officers fail to truly prepare for. Let George Williams guide you in your next civil deposition.

Very helpful.
